

Miss Collins To Reign

Salisbury State's Homecoming Queen this year is JoAnne Collins of Rhodesdale, Maryland. Her court includes Nelda Caulk, Senior representative; Kay Taylor, Junior representative; and Joan Claytor, Sophomore representative. The Queen and her court will figure prominently in the parade and the Homecoming Ball this weekend.

Leading the parade, seated in a convertible, will be JoAnne, followed by last year's queen, Gail Pippig. Next will come the court, each in a convertible. They will lead the procession along its route to the soccer field. Then, at the soccer's game's half-time, the crowning ceremony will take place with JoAnne receiving a crown of flowers. Unlike the crown used in previous years, this one may be kept as a remembrance. Also, before this year, the queen was crowned at the Homecoming Ball rather than at the game. This meant that she was officially recognized as queen at the end of the day. "This was silly," said Ann Woernle, who is in charge of the parade. "This way she will receive recognition in time for it to mean something." In keeping with this idea, JoAnne was chosen Homecoming Queen last year during SGA elections instead of this year, which gives her a longer period to reign. As Betty Jean Saathoff, Homecoming chairman, said, "It makes it more of an honor rather than just a shallow honor."

Joanne's next official appearance will be at the Homecoming Ball, Saturday, at 9 p.m. She and her court will sit at a special head table. Around 10 p.m., when the band takes its break, the queen and her court will be introduced and Dr. Devilbiss will present JoAnne with a bouquet of flowers.

Joanne and her escort will then lead the next dance.

As the Homecoming Queen, JoAnne is now the official elected representative of Salisbury State College. Whenever another school requests Salisbury to send its representative, JoAnne will be the one to go.

On being chosen queen, JoAnne said, "I was very surprised and very happy but also a little apprehensive." An active participant in college life, JoAnne has been in a number of organizations and has received several honors. Most recently she was chosen for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." She was secretary of the SGA last year and this year, a member of SNEA all four years and secretary in her Sophomore year, parliamentarian of Holloway Hall Women's Dormitory Association her sophomore year and Vice President in her junior year. She has worked on the Holly Leaf as a reporter all four years and is a member of Phi Alpha Theta. She was a Student Counselor her sophomore and junior years and is now on the Advisory Council. Besides all this, she was on the Dean's List three semesters and, last year she received the Anne H. Matthews Award for the Junior who showed the most promise as a teacher.

An elementary education major, JoAnne likes to sing, play the piano, sew, dance and read. She also says she likes to meet people. "Someday, I'd like to teach in a foreign country," she said.

Nelda Caulk, Senior representative, names skating and sewing as her hobbies. Here at school, she is in the SNEA, the WAA, of which she was the president last year and Senior Advisor this year, and the chorus. She is on the Manokin Hall Council, a member of the Student Life Committee and a reporter for the Holly Leaf. Last year she represented Salisbury's WAA at the University of Wisconsin. Active in sports, she was co-captain of the Varsity Volleyball team and she has participated in both volleyball and basketball intramurals. Nelda is in the elementary education program and lives in Federalsburg, Maryland.

Kay Taylor, Junior representative, is majoring in elementary education. Residing in Salisbury, she is a member of the Commuting Students Association. She is a student counselor and is the Junior class representative to the Student Life Committee. She also participates in intramural basketball. Her hobbies she lists as reading, tennis, and, "I bowl quite a bit."

Joan Claytor, Sophomore representative, comes from Annapolis, Maryland. She is a student counselor this year, a member of the Dormitory Council and last year was the Freshman representative to the Sweetheart Ball. She is also secretary to Inter-Varsity. An elementary education major, Joan likes to sew, sing, play tennis and go horseback riding. Concerning Homecoming, she says, "I hope it will be very successful and, I am glad I can be a part of it."

Homecoming Luncheon Honors Class of '42

"Campus life really begins about 2:20 when most of the classes are out and students gather on the front steps or trek over to Floyd's for a 'coke'. Here they hash out the present world situation, the latest faculty gossip, or the reason for that C-minus grade." 1967? Hardly. The year was 1942, just twenty-five years ago. This year's Homecoming Alumni Luncheon will honor the class of 1942 and their year.

It is interesting to look back at Maryland State Teachers College, Salisbury, Maryland, twenty-five years ago. The class of '42, all 27 of them, came from such colorful towns as Whiteford, East New Market, Rising Sun, Pisgah, Bivalve, and, of course, Cambridge and Salisbury. The total student enrollment was 183, with approximately 100 of these living in the dormitory.

Some names, familiar to us now,

Welcome Alumni

The Holly Leaf staff wishes to join the rest of the student body in welcoming our alumni, particularly the graduates of 1942, to SSC's Homecoming festivities. Looking back today on the year 1942, we see the war as the pervading factor, but we have tried to probe beyond the obvious, into the college-centered activities which occupied so much of the students' time. The old STC traditions, the college careers of 1942 Class leaders, a brief survey of the changes which have occurred, and some information on faculty members who have been here since 1942 are among our features with which we hope to interest alumni, and with our program of the weekend activities, we will strive to interest current students. We hope also that today's students will find pleasure in reading of SSC's yesterdays. We wish for all a very pleasant and enjoyable weekend.

Activities at STC were not so much different in 1942 than today. The classes gave dances, including the Freshman Formal on December 8, the sports teams, choruses, and dramatic groups were very active, and the various clubs had their meetings and debates. Among the activities no longer in existence were High School Seniors' Day, the election of May Queen (Dorothy Siddon, chosen because "she possessed the very air of a queen in poise, dignity, charm, and beauty of face and figure"), and the Vesper Hour every Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the Social Room.

STC was a busy college, alive not only with normal college activities but also with the hustle and bustle of war preparedness. Despite the international crisis, the class of 1942 had a successful year.

Organizations Disclose Float Designs

Some of the hard work and efforts of the different campus clubs and dorms during the last two or three weeks will be revealed at the annual Homecoming Parade. This year's parade will start at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 4.

Leading the parade will be the Queen of Homecoming, senior JoAnne Collins, followed by the junior, sophomore, and freshman class representatives. All of them will be riding in convertibles. Kay Taylor is the junior class representative; Joan Claytor is the sophomore representative, and representing the freshman class will be Pamela Entrekin.

The highlight of the parade will be the floats. Holloway Hall's theme for their float will be "In the Days of Holloway", honoring Mr. Holloway, who was the principal of the Normal school in 1925.

The float will represent a typical Sports Day of the twenties. There will be a grandstand with students dressed in the popular fashions of the twenties. Spectators should expect to see flapper dresses, raccoon coats, and middy blouses along with cow-bells and megaphones. Artificial grass will depict the playing field. Dorm members working on the float said they hoped to have an antique car leading the float.

Manokin, the other women's dormitory will present the theme of "Woman Suffrage — Past, Present, and Future". And Pocomoke, one of the resident men's dormitories, is tentatively planning a float to represent the movie stars and the "Greats" of the 1920's.

The WAA float will also represent sports. Their float, however, will feature the poster-board pictures of this era. These posters will show the different sports outfitts of the twenties. Holes will be cut out on the posters where the faces should be, and members of the WAA will depict the different athletes.

The Geographical Society's float should prove to be interesting this year. Plans are now in progress for having a huge globe on top of a Volkswagen as a float.

Sophanes Players will combine the theme of Homecoming, the roaring twenties, with their first production of the school year, CARNIVAL. Paper carnations will cover the bottom half of the float, naming the production and the year, 1967. On the float portray-

Tom Paxton Presents Concert

Nowadays music has gone off in many directions. One of the newer sounds of today is that of folksong writer and singer, Tom Paxton, who will be at Salisbury State tonight at 8 o'clock. Tickets are $1.50 per person. A combination concert and dance ticket may be purchased for $4.00.

"My Son, John" is one of the songs composed and recorded by Tom Paxton, which he may include in his repertoire this evening. His personality was reflected by the comment he made pertaining to the song while away from home in which he said, "I couldn't remember hearing a song about the ones who make it home."

Tom Paxton's repertoire ranges from sentimental love songs to ones of burning protest and he will be playing and singing both this evening. He has recorded songs like "Last Thing On My Mind", "Can't Help But Wonder Where I'm Bound", "The Marvelous Toy", and "My Dog's Bigger Than Your Dog". His ability to perform this variety of songs started when he was sixteen years old, when his aunt gave him his first guitar.

Because he can play more than one type of folk music, his songs have a deeply moving quality playing upon the various emotions of the many types of audiences who attend his concerts.

A native of Briston, Oklahoma, his real interest in folk music began at the University of Oklahoma. After college, Paxton joined the Army and was stationed at Fort Dix, New Jersey. Being close to New York City, he often went there, meeting other young people who shared his interest in folk music. It was then that he began to write songs. After leaving the service in 1960, he stayed in New York and soon won attention as a talented song writer and performer.

In the past year, Paxton has appeared at many clubs and colleges throughout the country. He has performed at the Newport and Philadelphia Folk Festivals and in the past year and a half has made two concert tours of England and Scotland, as well as many television appearances both here and in England.

Familiar Faces Remain at SSC

Back into the files of 1942 are seen in the field of photography. The names of four members of STC's faculty who are still with the college — Mrs. Grace Chaires, Mr. Benn Maggs, Dr. John B. May and Miss Gladys Lewis.

A native of Kleg Range, Maryland, Mrs. Grace Chaires majored in History and Political Science at Washington College, Chestertown. Later she received her B.A. in Library Science at Drexel Institute and her M.A. at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Chaires joined the faculty in 1937 but left to join the Navy as a lieutenant in 1943.

Until 1963, Mr. Maggs coached all of the men's sports. Now he coaches only the soccer team; a team that has had many successful seasons.

Dr. John B. May received his degrees from the University of Virginia before he joined the STC faculty in 1939. Serving as an Army lieutenant during World War II, he was stationed in India and Burma with the C.B.I.

While teaching Psychology at Salisbury, Dr. May has served as advisor to the Holly Leaf and the Evergreen, and as one of the first advisors to the SGA in its present format. (Prior to 1949, the SGA functioned as a Student Council.) Since 1951, Dr. May has been a psychologist with the Public Health Service, working with the Wicomico County Mental Health Clinic.

Mrs. Chaires stressed the cooperation of the faculty in the building of the Library holdings. She hopes that the future library at SSC will include a periodical room, a faculty lounge, a browsing room and faculty carrels.

Mr. Benn Maggs received his B.S. from Stroudsburg State Teachers College and his M.A. from New York University. He also did graduate work at New York University, Johns Hopkins University, and the University of Maryland. Arriving at STC in 1933, he has directed the college orchestra, taught the seventh grade at the Campus School, as well as health education, and physical education at the college. In 1934 when gymnasium was new to U. S. colleges, Mr. Maggs organized a Gym Club which had a well disciplined team. Joining the Navy in 1942, Mr. Maggs served in the Pacific Theater of operations as a lieutenant.

Belonging to the faculty for a longer period of time than the other members, Mrs. Grace Chaires, Miss Gladys Lewis, Mr. Benn Maggs, and Dr. John B. May have watched STC expand to SSC as it is today, and have actively participated in this growth.

IT HAPPENED IN 1942

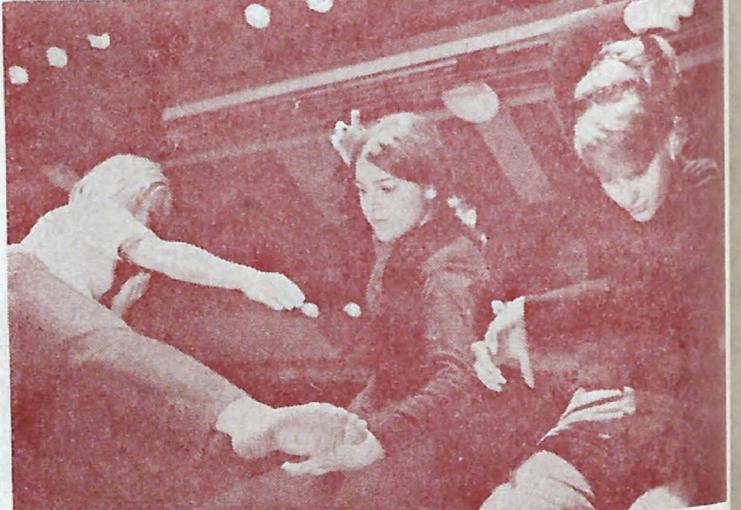

Traditionally, as a part of Homecoming activities, Salisbury honors a class. This year the Class of 1942 is being honored. In the same spirit it is interesting to view life at STC, Salisbury Teacher's College in the year 1942. For the alumni and the Class of 1942 specifically may this be a nostalgic remembrance of one year at college, and for the students presently enrolled at SSC may it be a respectful look at tradition in the making.

The inscription in the 1942 Evergreen begins with these lines: "Dedicated to the pursuit of scientific learning, to the creation of ideas and knowledge in the face of international chaos and domestic disruption. Today as never before in history the college is doing its part in training scientists, in preserving culture; it is preparing for the future when the nation will need the satisfaction of a culture beyond mere machines, beyond man-power . . ."

In the year of 1942 students of STC brought with them to college the burden of national crisis. As in every facet of life, national crisis affects the experience of the college student. This concern is well expressed in the above quote. Even in the face of crisis, life goes on, and an attempt at normality is strived for. So, too, in 1942 college life at STC was in many ways similar to that life we observe today in 1967. A look at the year of activities will illustrate this idea. The fall events began with the fabulous production of "Mighty Days of Robin Hood." This was presented by the sixth grade under the direction of the student teachers. Halloween at STC in 1967 is sparked by the appearance of the Great Pumpkin. In 1942 Halloween offered a delightful release, with a party in the gymnasium (Holloway Hall gym). Reliable sources claim that it was a rather frightening experience with all the ghouls, ghosts, and goblins present. Most students survived the experience and some even managed to go down into history with their striking costumes. Sally Dryden, a Spanish senorita, was considered the prettiest. The prize for the funniest went to Carmel Wilson and Jake Dryden who seemed to be the supporting ends of a clothes-line. Finally, Charles Pitt, as the Hunchback of Notre Dame, was the most original.

Activities, organized and unorganized, flourished in the winter months. The first ground-covering snow offered a scene not unknown to the college student of today. Snowball battles and walks in the snow were the order of the day. The Baglane-Carnegie Debate Society was very active, broadcasting forums over WBOC with the following colleges: Washington College, West Chester College, the University of Maryland and Western Maryland College. The debate society was a very vital part of the campus. Christmas has always been a very special time at Salisbury. With the attack on Pearl Harbor and the declaration of war Christmas was experienced with a new and deeper meaning. The traditional activities were carried out with reverence and with the hope that the spirit of service would always be present. The activities included the following: the candle-lighting service, annual turkey dinner, the caroling, exchange of gifts, and the giving of gifts to underprivileged children in the area. Another winter time activity which was a first at the college, was the production of an opera.

Now that some of the events of the year have been highlighted, it

Sophomores to Repeat Dances

The Modern Dance Recital to be presented Saturday, November 4, is an outgrowth of last year's Freshman women's performance, which replaced the traditional May Pole Dance. The program presented in May met with such enthusiasm that it is being introduced to the college again. Under the direction of Miss Mariana Morrison, a group of girls have been practicing since the beginning of October. The hard work involved in modern dance is not generally realized. This special program is even more difficult because the

Alumni to Hear Panel Discuss Science

Since the launching of the Russian Sputnik in 1957, American educators have realized the importance of emphasizing the role of science in the nation's schools. The world itself has become more math-science oriented. In keeping with the trend, Salisbury State College has constantly widened its science curriculum. A student at the two-year Maryland State Normal School at Salisbury was required, in 1925 to take biology and general science, the only science courses offered. Of course, there were no science majors and no laboratories as we know them. Now, forty-two years later, the SSC curriculum includes nearly forty different courses in both the biological and physical sciences. Furthermore, such specialized subjects as vertebrate embryology and organic qualitative analysis are available for study.

The purpose of the program, as Mr. Glenn sees it, will be to "familiarize alumni with progress at SSC in relationship to science in general". Each member of the panel will make a presentation and will answer any questions their listeners may have. "Science at SSC" is open to the public, and it is hoped that students and their guests, as well as alumni will attend.

This weekend, alumni who have been out of touch with SSC's science program, will be brought up

Board Seeks Autonomy

The Board of Trustees of the Maryland State Colleges asked the Constitutional Convention to grant constitutional autonomy to the State College System.

In a statement prepared for the Convention, the Board asked that its colleges as well as the University be granted constitutional autonomy to one and not the other would tend to create a situation where the State Colleges would be regarded as second class citizens of the State system of public higher education.

The creation of the tripartite organization of higher education "is not a division along the lines of quality of institutions," the statement said. "There are to be no first, second, or third class institutions of higher education in Maryland."

The Board answered the Constitutional Convention Commission's recommendation that the State Colleges be granted "autonomy through an act of the Legislature rather than the Constitution by citing the Commission's own critique of legislative autonomy in the past in Maryland. The Commission had said that "while the necessary autonomy can be provided by statute, it can be eroded by subsequent legislation."

In its statement the Board argued that constitutional autonomy is of great importance to assure the growth under effective management of the State College System. The Colleges will expand their enrollment from 10,000 in 1966 to 30,000 by 1975. They will complete their transformation from

Ballad to the Seniors

The seniors are a happy lot here at S.T.C., Our time is spent with Robin Hood And world geography;

Not to mention music and The songs that we've conducted — From some of these we all admit We'd like to be abducted.

Now there's Turk and Albert Atkinson Who wave their long batons, And peek behind the front porch posts With musical machine guns,

Gus Heath was shot in music class And so was Olie Horsman

Although their ghosts attend each class; I'll confess I am the worst one.

(The line above was just stuck in To make the sentence rhyme — I must hurry for my editor Wants my article in on time.)

There are more dignified seniors. It would be most unfair

To forget them, for although they're Not seen, they're really there.

If you'll arise some early morn And keep your feet from laggin' You'll see them gathered all out front Waiting for the station wagon.

Then merrily off to school they go — Each armed with a lesson plan, To teach at old Wicomico, Pinehurst, or Princess Anne.

"Oh, will I be observed today? Is Dr. Matthews home?"

You'll hear the wail day in, day out, No matter where you roam.

Their troubles are all little ones, (Take that any way you choose)

Nor are they aided by long stockings, Coats, ties, or high heeled shoes.

Now from the lines that you have read I'm sure you all agree,

We're the spirit of grandeur and dignity Here at S.T.C.

Committee Discusses Homecoming Ball

The Homecoming Ball will be held November 4 in the College Dining Hall from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. Students may purchase tickets for the semi-formal dance in the lobby of the Student Union Building at the cost of $2.00 per couple. Tickets will also be sold at the door, but they will be more expensive.

The dance committee, headed by Nancy McNeice and Ann Woerle, plans to center the dance around a roaring twenties theme, in keeping with the Homecoming theme.

The decorations will consist of posters of the era hanging on the walls and suspended from the ceiling. On the sliding doors leading off onto the patio will be two 6-foot-high figures of a flapper and a man, covered with cellophane. A light from the patio will shine through the cellophane giving the effect of a stained glass window. The centerpieces on the tables will reflect the idea of the bathtub gin days. During prohibition days, bathtub gin parties were the rage; so little bathtubs containing champagne bottles of bubble bath and mints will sit on the tables. Airplanes, recalling Lindbergh and his famous flight, will be suspended from the ceiling.

The committee has contracted with the Bob Craig Orchestra to provide music for the dancing couples. Hailing from Baltimore, Bob Craig has played at Loyola College, Towson State and several country clubs around Baltimore including the Mount Washington Country Club.

Cake and punch in the colors of the school will be served for refreshments.

There will be no official chaperones at the dance since the entire faculty has been invited.

The total number of students registered this semester at SSC is 851. Of this number, 286 are men, which by simple mathematical calculation leaves 565 women. This gives each man almost two women. There are 253 Secondary Education and 268 Elementary Education majors. The 156 Arts and Sciences majors are joined by 23 nursing students from Peninsula General, 99 graduate workers and 52 part-time students. 86 of the total number registered are imports from other states. This year the 103 Seniors, 153 Juniors, and 164 Sophomores were invaded by 257 Freshmen. The 52 members of the educational staff have an average of 16 pupils to teach and these individuals have an average of 111 books each, available at the campus library. Finally, Holloway Hall can boast the largest dorm membership with 191 women. Manokin Hall follows with 93 residents and the men's residence halls have approximately 107 together.

Mr. Fleming Marks 25th Year

Mr. A. L. Fleming, who has been on the faculty of Salisbury State College since 1942, has had a long and checkered career in a variety of occupations.

Mr. Fleming's academic background includes study at Middle Tennessee Technological University, Middle Tennessee University, George Peabody College, and New York University.

Since coming to Salisbury, Mr. Fleming has been extremely active in civic affairs as well as in academic ones. One of his more recent activities has included the chairmanship of the City Charter Study Commission appointed by the mayor in 1963. This group investigated the feasibility of Wicomico County operating under metropolitan government; action is pending on this issue. Mr. Fleming also served as the chairman of the Citizens Advisory Council to the City and County Councils.

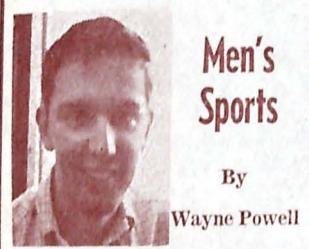

In the past, Mr. Fleming was appointed by the mayor of Salisbury to serve as the organizer of the Greater Salisbury Committee which was created to explore the possibilities of a balanced and expanded economic program for Salisbury. At present he serves as the secretary to that organization. In addition to these activities Mr. Fleming serves as the Vice-Chairman of the Community Council of the City and County Councils.

During the summer months Mr. Fleming works for the Delmarva Advisory Council as Economic Development Director. The jobs that Mr. Betts, Miss Po-

The Gulls' soccer squad has been having its ups and downs so far this season. Overall, however, the team's efforts have been successful. The record as of this writing now stands at four wins, two losses and one tie.

On October 10, the Gulls visited Glassboro State College in New Jersey and dropped an 8-5 decision to the homesters. SSC scored first in the game and held a 3-2 lead at halftime. However, Glassboro began to find the mark in the third period scoring five times against the Gulls. The free scoring contest came as a result of the damp and muddy field. Considering the adverse circumstances, Salisbury goalies, Gene Streagle and Ron Gore did an outstanding job. Most of Glassboro's damage was done by Sam Stepano, the home team's center forward who scored four times. For the Gulls, it was left inside Ray Shingler who led the way with two goals — one in the second and another in the third quarter. Bruce Hartley, Bill Moffitt and Andy Hall each chimed in with a score for the Gulls.

The Gulls got back on the winning track on Thursday, October 19. The SSC crew again headed for New Jersey and there dealt a crushing defeat to Shelton College.

FLOAT DESIGNS

The Cheerleaders of Salisbury State College plan to ride in a car decorated with maroon and gold streamers.

"Miss Holly Leaf", Sue Henry, will be the feature of the campus newspaper's float. Miss Henry's attire will consist of two huge holly leaves, and she will be swinging a red berry-colored single string of beads. On the front of the float will be a blown-up Holly Leaf newspaper. This float will be "drawn" by Cora and Goliath, a "team" of Corvairs. The co-editors of the newspaper, Laurel Pilsch and Marilyn Schneck, will be driving the cars.

There will be a reviewing stand at the end of the parade. Five judges will judge the floats and two prizes will be given.

SOPHOMORE DANCES

Standouts in the Gull's third winning effort were senior Wyatt Wallace, who booted in three of the Gulls markers and also was credited with an assist. Junior Ray Shingler, who scored twice and likewise had an assist, and Andy Hall and Barry Riggan, who each scored once for the Gulls. Coach Maggs also had praise for two defensive standouts in the ball game, Steve McCoy and Jim Kreuzburg. The Gulls scored in each quarter with the brunt of the attack coming in the third period when the Gulls scored three times. SSC goalies Gene Streagle and Ron Gore combined to shut out the homesters.

On October 25, the Gulls traveled to a neutral field in Baltimore and squeezed by Frostburg State by a 3-2 margin. This, incidentally, was the same margin of victory for the Gulls over this opponent in the '66 season. The Gulls scored early — three goals in the first period — and then had to fight hard to hold back the Bobcats. Andy Hall starred in the hard fought victory with two Gulls goals to his credit. Bruce Hartley accounted for the Gulls' other two. Coach Maggs also had words of praise for defensive standout Sonny Riggan.

One of the highlights of the Gulls' 1967 soccer season will come on November 3 when the Gulls play the Alumni. Not only is this one of the few home games of the season but also it gives the Gulls of '67 a chance to see how they stack up against Salisbury standouts of years gone by. It's always an interesting contest and this year's game should be no exception.

Sharon Fritz, Sherlou Kelly, Xris McMillin, Donna Pruitt and Teresa Williams; Hole in the Wall with Sonja Emala; and Old Man River with Joan Homberg and Jeanne Stewart. The finale will be Congo, a reading by Miss Dolores Miller, who has also been directing the group. This will be interpreted in dance by Anne Dietrich, Diane Unger, Beverly Harris, Patricia Gerald, Joyce Busch, Sue Henry, and Mary Klingner.

Modern dancing has become a characteristic of Freshmen women's Physical Education courses because of the exercise, gracefulness and fun gained through it. And it has achieved such enthusiasm that a Modern Dance Club has recently been formed.

PANEL DISCUSSES SCIENCE

the teacher training institutions they were in 1963 to multi-purpose institutions with a variety of developing programs. The statement cited the Curlett Commission Report which stated that the Commission "regards the right of any board of trustees to govern the internal affairs of an academic institution under its jurisdiction as essential to both the freedom and the efficiency of higher education..."

The Board argued, too, that autonomy would not lessen the responsibility that the Colleges owe to the State. The determination of what the Colleges will be doing and how much money they will spend doing it will be up to the General Assembly and the Governor. In fact, they argued, "autonomy would strengthen planning and coordination by placing responsibility in the hands of a Board whose activities would be visible to the Governor, the Legislature, and the public."

ATHLETICS PLUS

The Women's Athletic Association encompasses many activities other than just those coming under the heading athletics. Recreation is a very important part of anyone's college career. Modern Dance, cheerleading, and bowling — all three of which can be classified as recreation — are parts of many SSC student's lives. All these activities are sponsored by the WAA.

As of now there are seven members of the Modern Dance Club — Pat Gerald, Bev Harris, Sue Henry, Mary Klingner, Ann Dietrich, Diane Unger, and Joyce Busch. These seven coeds, along with the top nine dance recital groups from last year, will be presenting modern dance routines during Homecoming. After the presentation, the club will be open to other interested girls. Signs around campus will post further details.

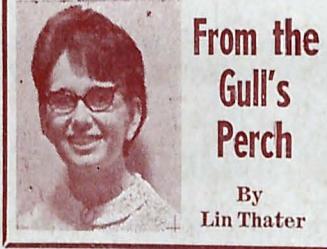

The Cheerleaders are also sponsored by the WAA. As always, they have been backing both men's and women's teams.

Bowling is a third activity managed by the WAA. Each Monday evening from 6:00 - 7:30 each of the ten teams bowl three games in competition. So far this season, the Alleycats: Miss Zacharias, Linda DeMoss, and Tony Williams, boast the most wins. Following in a close second, are the Gophers, a team including Sharon Smith, Linda Andrews, and Chuck Lutz. High individual averages belong to Chuck Lutz, Eddie Baker, and Tony Williams, respectively. Cost for all three games is only $1.00; shoes are free.

As long as the weather permits, bicycles can be rented by energetic students. This offers a very good fitness activity. Beth Alekna is available in Manokin Hall, Room 20, to check out the bikes.

The Homecoming games are a tradition at Salisbury. And, although the hockey team does not always play the Alumni, the games are always exciting. The Homecoming Hockey Game this year will pit Salisbury's Varsity squad against that of King's College of Briarcliff Manor, New York. This is the first time that Salisbury has ever played King's College, and the team is anxious to meet its new-found rival.

Previous Homecoming games have found the hockey team playing the Alumni and other colleges.

In 1963 and 1964 Salisbury played the Alumni. Both games were won by the Varsity by scores of 2-0. I would imagine that this is the reason why there have been no Alumni games since then: the Alumni cannot take it. In 1965, the Homecoming game was played against Philadelphia College of the Bible. SSC lost by a score of 3-2. In 1966 the Homecoming game with Washington College was cancelled.

So far this season, Salisbury State's hockey team has won two games, lost three, and tied two. Wesley was Salisbury's first game of the season. The SSC 2nd squad put up a good fight, but was defeated 5-4.

On Saturday, October 21, the hockey team, fencing, golf, and tennis teams travelled to College Park for the University of Maryland's annual Sports Day. The hockey team beat the University of Maryland's Varsity I team by a score of 1-0, and Gallaudet by a score of 1-0 also. The team tied George Washington University, but lost to Marjorie Webster 1-0. At the end of the day, Doris Scott and Bonnie Wingrove were chosen as the most valuable players on the SSC team for the entire day. Miss Morrison was on a panel of judges and was not with the the float will be Joyce Spring, Barbara Lewis, Beth Alekna, and Eileen Radich.

The gym will be open November 4 from 4-6 p.m.; WAA hostesses on hand will be Lin Robertson, Lin Thater, Ann Woernle, and Sharon Derflinger. A special display for the WAA Alumnae will be exhibited in the Gym Lobby, and also the SHE-GULL will make its 1967-68 debut in honor of all past WAA members.

WAA FUTURE

The next two general board meetings will be November 14 and November 28.

A new roller rink is being opened in Salisbury. The WAA has been considering sponsoring a skating party. Would you be interested?

Already the Board has given thought to its Sports Day next spring. This year we decided to invite colleges instead of high schools. The date will be April 20.

Infirmary Opens

One of SSC's new expansion programs has been the new infirmary located in the south first-floor area of Holloway Hall. The new section consists of a waiting room, the doctor's and nurse's offices, a treatment room, four student rooms containing seven beds, and the nurse's quarters.

On call 24 hours a day, Mrs. Beatrice Thomas, Mrs. Pearl Hutchings, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rickert are the three rotating nurses. Office hours are 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. on weekdays, 10 a.m. - 12 noon on Saturdays, and 1 p.m. - 3 p.m. on Sundays. No students, however, should hesitate to seek medical attention because one of the nurses is always in the office.

Doctor Henry A. Briel, a well-known surgeon at Peninsula General Hospital and associated with the office of Long, Sadler, Hughes and Todd, is the college physician. An appointment may be made thru the doctor by contacting one of the nurses. Hours for the doctor's free services will be posted later.

SSC Hockey Team after battling to 1-1 tie in monsoonal downpour.

hockey team at all. The Varsity Captain, Terry Miller, therefore, took over the running of the team.

In golf, Marilyn Schneck got the low net score of the day. In fencing Cindy Hammond and Kathy Saches came in second and third. Miss Morrison told all the teams that they did a good job, but was especially pleased with the hockey team for their victory over the University of Maryland.

Salisbury's hockey team met their next defeat at the hands of Catonsville Community College. In perhaps the hardest fought contest of the season the Cardinals squeezed out a 2-1 victory over the Gulls. The teams were so evenly matched that the entire second half was scoreless. The Catonsville coach complimented Miss Morrison after the game and stated that SSC was the first real competition her squad had met.

In another evenly matched contest, the Salisbury stickers battled to a 1-1 tie with the Philadelphia College of the Bible. The game was played almost entirely in a chilly, twilight, monsoonal downpour which thoroughly soaked the referee, both coaches, both teams and both spectators.

Following Homecoming, the hockey team will meet St. Mary's at home on November 10, at 3:30 p.m.
